THE WASHINGTON CRITIC, Washington, D. C.

RICHARD H. SYLVESTER, - Editor, WASHINGTON, D. C., NOV. 4, 1885

THE RESULT IN NEW YORK.

Not only has the President reason to be satisfied with the result of yesterday's election in New York, but looking at the matter from a strictly non-partisan standpoint, this Critic is of the opinion that this endorsement of the Administration is the best thing that could have happened for the country.

It is no longer an open question how Mr. Cleveland stands in his own State. It can no longer be urged against him that the majority by which he carried the electoral vote of New York in November a year ago was too small and indecisive to be considered a substantial expression of public sentiment in his favor.

We believe that the outcome of this great struggle will be salutary to the public welfare, for the reason that it so effectively settles what all admit was hitherto a greater or less extent unsettled—the standing of the Administration before the people.

With an honest, vigorous, statesmanlike administration of affairs at Washington, and such the people seem to be assured they are going to have, the better times for which they will not be long delayed.

VIRGINIA.

The result of the election in Virginia is a triumph for the Democracy of the Old Dominion, such as they have not achieved since the close of the war.

There was some doubt expressed at various stages of the canvass as to the ability of the Democrats to carry the Legislature, but their efforts in this direction appear to have been conducted with quite as much energy and dash as elsewhere in the field.

The other day an engineer on the Mississippi Valley route was promoted from a freight to a passenger train. He was proud of his promotion and determined to make a good record.

It is to the credit of both parties that considering the degree to which the public mind of the State was excited over the contest, the election passed off with such general quietude and absence of disorder.

MR. GORMAN WINS.

Maryland is steadfast in her Democracy. The opponents of Senator Gorman, consisting of Republicans and Democrats, who had evolved into that peculiar species known as the Maryland muggump, have met him and are his.

A little hand within my power. More precious 'tis than silver, gems of gold. White, dimpled, soft, it nestles New-born life.

More love with which to teach Thy Lovelike; Less faith in my own strength, much more in Thine.

More earnest, faith to point The road; That narrow road and straight, which leads To God.

—(Hattie Tremaine Terry in Good House-keeping.

PEOPLE IN GENERAL.

The Forty-ninth Congress will meet for its first session on Monday, December 7. Frederick Loock and Adolphus were registered last evening at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

En. J. L. M. Curry, the American Minister to Spain, will sail for Europe to-day by the steamship Germania.

R. M. Hooper, United States Vice-Consul-General at Paris, left New York yesterday by the Servia for Liverpool.

SEXTON GEORGE is said to have almost entirely recovered from an affection of the eye with which he has long been afflicted.

THE PARIS Morning News of recent date says: "Mrs. Thomas A. Scott and Miss Scott of Philadelphia are at the Hotel Liverpool."

A WHITE-CHEESE performance of Bellini's "Norma" at the Metropolitan Opera, the whole opera was whistled through the chorus being executed by sixteen whistlers.

THE Cuckler is the name of a new poultry journal. When the editor goes into his scription to write his leaders the devil comes in, slugs 2, 3, 4, 5! There's a hen on it.—(N. Y. Tribune.

VEGETARIANISM is spreading very rapidly in London. Ten years ago it was difficult to find an avowed vegetarian, but now more than 3,000 persons refresh themselves daily at the vegetarian restaurants.

MR. PAUL DANA, son of the editor of the New York Sun, is dangerously ill with typhoid fever. He is about 30 years of age and has been editorially connected with his father's paper for the last five years.

THOMAS GEORGE OF WALES probably merits his recent promotion to a lieutenant's rank in the British army for more than eight years. His uncle Edmund brought the promotion in four years.

NAT GOODWIN, the actor, once received a West Point cadetship from Congressmen by their present representatives, or falling in that, to consider the advisability of independent action on the part of those interested in the reform.

A LADY in Wilkesbarre, who discovered that her daughter was being taught physiology and hygiene, day before yesterday, she writes to her father in the following terms: "Dear Sir, I don't want my daughter to be taught about her insides. It isn't right, and I don't like it. Yours truly, Mrs. J. S. S. Republican."

FASHIONS IN FURNITURE.

A widespread rage for the Antique in Designs. "Great rage for the antique." "Yes, that still continues to be the mode. Liberty, for the last few years, has been an affair with the style of the period, as fitted with Oriental cabinets, curiously carved or inlaid and covered with all sorts of oddities from Japan, China or the Indies.

Look at that," and Mr. Mitchell pointed to a chair from Hingloston, with a young brass top on top. "These cabinets of teak wood are very popular, as is Dutch ware from Holland. There is an iron pot worth $50 with elegant raised lacquer work and a pair of Japanese swords. See the bird table on the lawn. These cabinets are fortunate fellow played harikari with them. They are just the things to hang on a hallway wall or an oil helmet.

"That's about what is that, pray? Isn't it beautiful?" "Yes, that horn came from one of the horns of a peculiar breed in the West. They have the finest horns of any cattle in the world. You see how elegantly it is brass mounted. Well, in Germany some of the societies use such horns for drinking their lager out of. They wear the horns about their necks. It is a peculiar habit, but it is their neighbor and so on till all have a use."

"But the last man, does he get lost?" "No, no; he gets drowned. Notice the horn has a peculiar twist in it. They have the last man take a drink the beer comes around that twist, and as he turns the horn, he is drinking it. It is a very peculiar habit, but it is their neighbor and so on till all have a use."

An amusing incident happened the other night at the Star Theatre while Miss Anderson was playing "Pygmalion and Galatea." The venerable Dr. Sayre, who had, while occupied a lower promenade box, ladies-attending to their toilet, private secretary, an elegant bouquet, threw it so high that it struck the globe of a chandelier just over the stage box. The crashing of the broken glass and the landing of the bouquet on a high-trip of the orchestra made it seem for a time that the chandelier and the expert had killed a fiddler. The audience broke into a tempestuous roar of laughter. Miss Anderson looked at the bouquet, then an expression of pain passed over her troubled countenance, but when it appeared that she was not hurt, she turned to the man who had thrown the bouquet and said: "My dear lady, a lovely bouquet had fallen about in my journey to her feet, she gave a smile of gratification, but her latest conquest, which she had just won, was a pitcher in a baseball line."—(New York Graphic.

LIFTING THE HAT.

In the good old days, says the Chicago Herald, there was something so stately and commanding in the manner of lifting the hat when the lady gave the signal for recognition. It was combined with a bow which had to be executed in order to make the effect complete. The lady would take a gentleman, for I never knew a vulgar man to acquire the art of lifting his hat gracefully. But this seems to have been obliterated by the coming generation in pants. The thing now is to grab the rim of the hat in front with the same energy which you would use in grabbing a man's hand who has just been trying to hide your face from a man who will take you for a fool. This way ought to hide his face—then you rub the hat up and down your front, taking an hour, and as he came out of the band as if you were trying to get a man's attention. When the hat gets back to its place you grin like a monkey; one grin is all that the crowd requires. By this time the only hat open her mouth sufficiently to let out the noise.

SOME MUSICAL PEOPLE.

In a sized organ built of the late Madame Joseph's organs by the artist Frey in an exhibition at Ellis' music store. Church & Co. of Cincinnati has just published a new song by Hubbard South of the city, entitled "Along My Children's Plantation," with bright melody and pretty sentiment.

A well-known church singer came to church last Sunday in a brand-new silk dress made to fit to a lady. She was so proud of it, having made it herself. When she sang to sing, however, she found that the sleeves were so tight that she could not open her mouth sufficiently to let out the noise.
